Lab Technician

Description

Fast growing engineering firm seeks energetic team player with excellent communication skills. We are searching for a highly professional candidate to join our safety and performance testing team as a Lab Testing Technician. The qualified individual will perform both routine and custom test programs according to documented processes and standards. Experience with HVAC equipment, laboratory data acquisition and laboratory test equipment is a plus. Prefer an independent self-starter with at least 4 years hands-on experience. Attention to detail, integrity of results and accuracy in performance are all non-negotiable skills. If you meet the qualifications described above and are looking to join an expanding testing laboratory, contact ARL today.
